Rabbi's Reflections

In Parshat BeHalotekha, in the Book of Numbers, we read that the whining and complaining of the Israelites has taken its toll on Moses: “God, “Did I conceive this people or give birth to it?... Am I its nurse maid...? How shall I bear [this people] alone?” As I read these words, I recall the summer days of my youth. As my family returned from the beach, from the park, from whatever activity or event we attended, the excitement and fun of the day began to wear on us kids, three little boys now getting tired and irritable. “Are we home yet?” “I’m thirsty!” “I’m tired!” “He’s pushing me!” My parents, whose Yahrzeits I’ll be observing this month, were patient people. They knew where these complaints were coming from. Most of the time they remained calm and collected – but there were times when our whining wore on them just as much as the long day had worn on us kids.

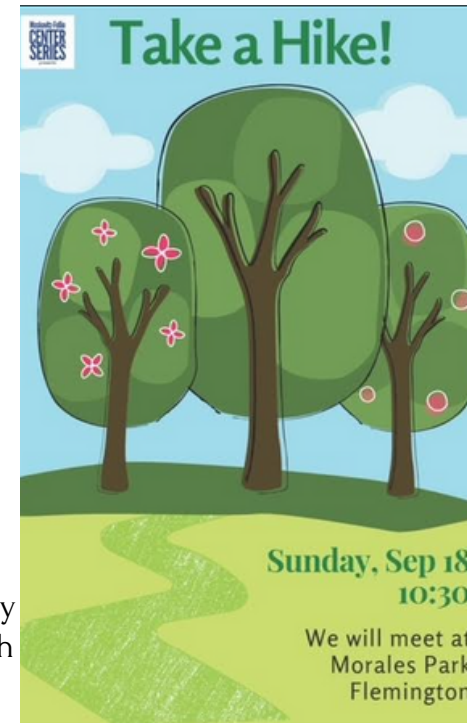

Promises of ice cream when we returned home sometimes did the trick, so also did games my parents could invent, it seemed, out of nowhere. But... these creative ideas did not always work. In the long narrative that is our growing up, sometimes parents and children are able to find a way to cope with difficult circumstances... and sometimes they are not.

I can’t help but read this Torah story onto my own life experience, especially as we read it this season. In the Torah, however, God comes to the rescue: “Moses, gather for Me seventy men from among the elders of Israel...to the Tent of Meeting...I shall descend and speak with you there. I will spread forth the spirit that is upon you and place it upon them...and you shall not bear it alone.” God knows the burden of leadership, and the value of delegating.

Nowadays, I’d like to think God also recognizes the burden of parenting. We probably don’t expect God to come to us, while we are returning from a family trip with whining kids in the car. But, as people living in the modern world, shouldn’t we have a support system, the way the 70 Elders supported Moses?

Grand-parents, nannies, baby-sitters, and day care are all great supports. We are lucky to have these..., if we have them. Too many Americans do not have such a support system. Either because we don’t have family, or family nearby, or because we can’t afford these resources. Child-care is a hugely important issue for this country. If we did not know that before COVID, we know it now. Providing access to child-care is crucial, and yet too many of our elected officials do not think so. I call my representatives asking them to support universal pre-K, among other things. I hope you will too. Moses was our greatest prophet. If he needed some help, can’t we admit that we do as well?

Rabbi Eric S. Cohen, PhD

From The Desk of Our President

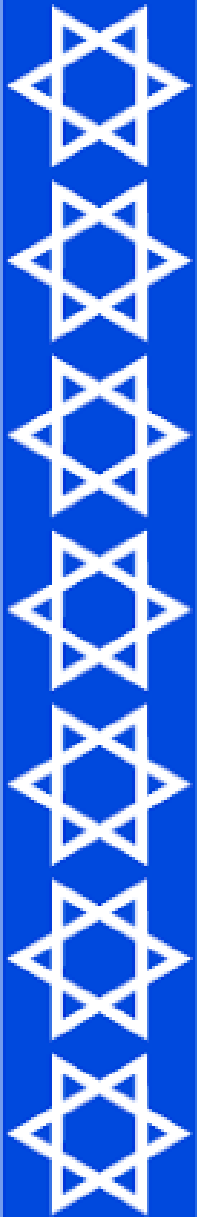

It is August ... to most of us, that means the hazy, lazy dog days of August! It is an optimal time to enjoy getting outdoors in the warm weather, downtime, farm fresh vegetables, vacation with your family, etc. To celebrate, the FJCC will host a fun, music-filled BBQ extravaganza on August 28th – please register on Shul Cloud today! For the FJCC staff and volunteers, August is an extremely busy month, so thank goodness the air conditioning is working well. Rabbi Cohen, Deborah Kesselhaut, Karen Walsh and the various committee members are hard at work planning for the High Holidays. As a congregant, it is not always apparent how many people have dedicated how many hours so we can have a joyous Rosh Hashanah, a meaningful Yom Kippur and a celebratory Sukkot. Ritual - The Ritual Committee, under the guidance of Rabbi Cohen, is working tirelessly lining up a chazzan, finding and tutoring Torah readers, assigning honors for the members of the congregation, monitoring Covid, cleaning the silver and dressing the Torahs, arranging seating, planning Junior Congregation. Thank you to Rabbi Cohen, Jeff Doshna, Cheryl Faigan, Shellie Jacobson, Bruce Moskowitz and Anneliese Nifoussi.

Finance – Although it might not seem like a lot of effort goes into maintaining our financial books, it does! At this time of year, lots of calls are made to ensure our membership records are accurate. Only families who have made a membership pledge and made at least one payment toward that pledge will be given an honor and reserved seats for the holidays. Thank you Lina Avallone and Jonathan Weitz for all you do.

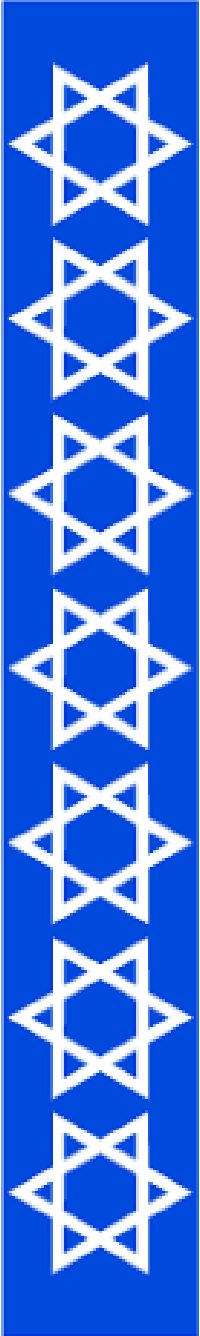

Building and Grounds – In addition to the day to day maintenance, the Building and Grounds Committee is busy checking off items on their list: painting in the building so it looks as good as it did when we moved in, monitoring the air conditioning, upgrading the lighting, repairing the parking lot, working with the Fire Marshall to make sure the building is up to code, addressing the audio visual needs for the holidays, supervising the landscapers and many more. Thank you to Dave Cohn, Zel Gerstein, Alan Hylton, Nathan Lefkow, Adam Wolf, Mike Wolf. I would be remiss if I didn't also thank our building staff: Angelica Calix, Laura Hernandez and Samantha Perez.

Security – The safety of our staff and members is paramount. The Security Committee is actively addressing security by hiring police coverage for the holidays, making equipment upgrades, researching funding opportunities, getting updates on regional threats, consulting with local law enforcement, and planning training sessions. Thank you to Jerry Atlas, John Fellin, Zel Gerstein, Marvin Jacobson, Nathan Lefkow, Nadine Milecofsky, Bruce Moskowitz.

Cemetery – Starting about Memorial Day, when flags are placed on appropriate graves, and through the High Holidays, the cemetery requires a lot of grooming. Excavating, mowing, tree trimming is done by Keith Fields and Brian Green so the grounds are ready to welcome your visits. Thank you to Jeff Doshna, Carolyn Goldman, and Deborah Kesselhaut for managing all and honoring our dearly departed relatives and friends.

From The Desk of Our President

Center Series – The Center Series Committee certainly hasn't been on summer break! They have been quite busy planning engaging programs for the members to enjoy in the coming year. Their work includes a lot of logistics – brainstorming, identifying event chairs, contacting speakers, arranging catering, enlisting volunteers, organizing the publicity machine, managing the calendar and many more. Of course, we can't forget the gorgeous posters that Cara makes to adorn our lobby and advertise our activities. Many thanks to the hardworking Center Series volunteers: Barbara Clarin, John Fellin, Nomi Forman, Carolyn Goldman, Marsha Goldstein, Selena Kern, Cara London, Nadine Milecofsky, Bruce Moskovitz, Kim Muller, Jonathan Nemeth, Adah Radzin, Harry Rapkin, Rachel Rodriguez, Mona Shapiro, Cheryl Schutz, Karen Walsh, Sharon Zimmerman, Marcela Zuchovicki.

Sisterhood – I'm excited to announce that Sisterhood has a new Co-President, Rachel Rodriguez. She will join Sonia Bellamy in running the organization this year. They published a schedule of upcoming events and meetings which is available on the FJCC website. Log in to your ShulCloud account (email the office if you need help) and add your name to the Rosh Hashanah card being produced by Sisterhood. We are looking forward to fun programs thanks to the Sisterhood Board of Sonia Bellamy, Andrea Goldstein-Byne, Rachel Rodriguez and Cheryl Schutz.

Please know that the Nursery, Hebrew School, Youth Group, Membership Committee, Long Term Planning Group, and Communication volunteers are very active as well. You'll hear more about those efforts in another newsletter. My gratitude goes to Garry and Ian Rodriguez for stepping forward to publish this August newsletter. Thanks!

Finally, a host of large and small arrangements for the High Holidays are undertaken by our office manager, Deborah Kesselhaut and assisted by office volunteers Evelyn and Phil Stern, Josy Kestenbaum and Richard Goldstein. I thank them all! Deborah is in the midst of completing the huge job of learning how to use Shul Cloud then designing the forms for you to order extra seats, list names in the memorial book, buy a lulav and etrog, make a donation to the parking raffle, and more. This year, the forms are database-linked and registrations will be done primarily online via Shul Cloud. Check flemingtonjcc.shulcloud.com to make sure you have your login credentials or email the office. Deborah's additional holiday duties continue throughout August and well into September. So, when you contact her next, be patient and appreciative for all she is handling at this busy time of year.

For our hard-working staff and generous volunteers, my hat goes off to you! If I have inadvertently missed someone, please accept my apology. And, to anyone with an extra few hours, there are plenty of opportunities for you to learn a new skill and give back to your shul community – just give me a call, text or email.

Hebrew School

I hope the students are enjoying their summer vacation time. I am sure they are excited to be back at camp, doing activities and vacationing.

This is the time of year that we are busy organizing class lists, ordering books and supplies and preparing for back to school.

In addition to Shabbat Dinners and student-led services we will be offering several new and creative Hebrew School Interactive Shabbat Programs. This fall there will be a two part musical Shabbat featuring Shabbat music from around the globe. Student will be making instruments on the first day of Hebrew School to enhance the program. There is also Ruach Shabbat with guitar accompaniment. Rebecca Kelly is returning for Storytelling Shabbat and will then be working with the Hebrew School students to present a Parsha Skit for Beyachad.

Dates to remember:

July 27th– GOING DIGITAL! Back to School Forms will be sent via email. You can complete the pdfs and return them to kmittler@flemingtonjcc.org by August 19th.

August 19th – Registration and Program Fee is due and the calendar link will be emailed to you.

September 7th – Rosh HaShanah High Holiday Jr. Congregation

September 12th – First day of Hebrew School

Giving Garden

We recently delivered to the Flemington Food Pantry one zucchini, a lot of cherry tomatoes, and a huge sack of string beans. Together, they weighed six pounds. The reaction of the woman who accepted the donation was one of pure joy. I have to admit, it took so much self-control not to munch on them during the drive to drop them off.

It hasn't been an easy last few weeks with little rain and very hot sun watering every day is essential. We also have some unwanted but so, so, so cute residents in our kale bed. Two bunnies, smaller than my hand. They were moved to the forest but they were right back to greet our Woman of the Year, Josy Kestenbaum when she came to water the very next day. I purchased deer fencing awhile ago, but putting it up is a big job that I can't handle myself. If you can help, I think we really need to put it along the fence to make it harder for little critters to get in.

Remember to bring in your compostable scraps!!!
