RABBI'S REFLECTIONS

In Parshat Re'eh, in the Book of Deuteronomy we read: "See, today I set before you a blessing and a curse..."

Our sages teach that, at least in one way, humans are superior to angels. And, that is, in their freedom of choice. Unlike angels, who bask constantly in the glow of the Almighty, we can choose how to act in the world. Of course we pay a price for that. In our world, as opposed to the angelic one, lots of people make bad choices, lots of the time. The existence of evil, in Jewish thought, is not ascribed to a being with horns, hooved feet and a pitchfork. Evil in our world is directly related... to our ability to choose. "See, today I set before you a blessing and a curse..." It's your choice, God says.

Now, it's not entirely our fault that evil exists. We are not angelic beings. We do not spend our lives in direct contact with God's glory. Humans make mistakes.

Why did God make us this way? Why not live with God's presence clearly visible and directly accessible? Well..., this is the $60,000 question - back in the day when $60,000 was really worth $60,000. [Pause] I have no great answer for this. The best I can figure, God wanted us to be human, with all our flaws. Adam and Eve were the humans who came closest to direct experience of God in the Garden of Eden. But, let's face it, even they did not last very long.

Whatever answer we try to give to this age-old question, we must accept, I think, that this is how God wanted humanity to be. God wants a relationship, it would seem, with an imperfect creature, bound by space and time and physical needs, in ways which God is not. Why? Who knows the mind of God? Perhaps what God seeks is just that...relationship. God wants something / someone else to relate to. Angels, which are little more than extensions of God, just won't do.

So, where does that leave us? "See, today I set before you a blessing and a curse..." We are left with the choice. In each and every day, we make choices. Each choice we make brings us closer to, or farther from, the human we should be. Hopefully, we will not make the choices which Nazis make, or murderers make. Hopefully, in our lifetimes, we will not choose to commit heinous acts. And yet, we make mistakes, and, as the poet tells us... to err is human.

How do we recover? How do we crawl out from under our sins that pile over us. One way is to recognize that we're all in the same boat. We all make mistakes. Yes, to err is human, but... you all know what comes next... to forgive is divine. I think forgiveness is divine... because... it can be really, really hard. I know I find it hard. Most of us are very attached to our self, to this notion that we are independent, autonomous beings who need protection, who do not want to be hurt.

We are not wrong in this, but... this is only small part of who we are. We are also part of a web of interconnected relationships that has its roots in the God from which we all emerge. If we think of human beings that way, then forgiving the person who hurt us is like... well... our tongue forgiving our tooth for biting it. Of course, it's not that easy or simple. This is just my... poor attempt at navigating humanity.

We are approaching Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. The time of year we take account of who we have been, and... who we could be. Can I make better choices in the new year? One thing I can do is look for better ways to deal with my anger or resentment. If you have suggestions, please, feel free to share.

Shanah Tovah!

Rabbi Eric S. Cohen, PhD

FROM THE DESK OF OUR PRESIDENT

In many circles, August is a slow time of year ... but not at the FJCC.

This past month has been incredibly busy and eventful! Throughout July and into August, the Executive Board (Jonathan Nemeth, Kim Muller, Rachel Rodriguez, Nadine Milecofsky, Jonathan Weitz and Bruce Moskovitz) and the Board of Trustees drafted, revised and eventually came to an agreement with Rabbi Cohen on a new employment contract. So, I am happy to report that Rabbi Cohen will be leading us at the FJCC for another four years.

Volunteers and staff spent much of August cleaning and organizing, and it feels great!

Many of the closets in the building got an overhaul. Thank you to Rabbi Cohen who led the charge with the genizah burial of old texts. Karen Walsh, Kimi Mittler and Kylei Mittler put the Hebrew School classrooms in order. Josy Kestenbaum and Nathan Lefkow led us in clearing and reorganizing several areas throughout the building. And Jeff and Amy Marshall worked long hours to sort and donate Family Promise items from the book room. I am grateful to each and every one of them!

In mid-August, the FJCC members had the pleasure of meeting our new High Holiday Cantor, Akiva Nelson. He led services for a weekend and taught the congregation some new tunes. Those who attended services were quite pleased with his melodious voice, his energy and his easy-going personality. Plan on attending services for Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur to once again hear and talk with Cantor Nelson!

The Center Series and Sisterhood worked tirelessly over the past few months to organize a terrific lineup of events for the coming year. During August, final touches were put on program plans and then the graphics were printed. Take a look at all the beautiful posters on the wall in the lobby.

Often, in my column, I reference a good book I am reading. This month is no exception.

At the top of the list is "The Postcard" and you will hear more about it during my Yom Kippur address to the congregation.

So far this August, I read The Mountains Sing, Netanyahus and Katika. All worthwhile novels. In the coming week, I hope to tackle the following seven books: Horse, West with Giraffes, Hello Beautiful, We are Not Like Them, Between the Mountain and the Sky, Summer Sisters, My Dear Hamilton, and maybe Merle's Door: Lessons from a Freethinking Dog

FROM THE DESK OF OUR PRESIDENT

A huge thank you to Nadine Milecofsky, Karen Walsh, Cara London, and Rachel Rodriguez for leading this effort. The members of the Sisterhood and Center Series Committee responded to feedback and we hope you are pleased with the upcoming offerings. If you want to get involved in the programming, they welcome additional volunteers!

Be assured that the Security Committee takes their charge quite seriously. I am grateful for their work in developing a holistic approach to keeping our staff and members safe from harm. Thank you John Fellin, Zel Gerstein, Nathan Lefkow, Bruce Moskowitz, Marvin Jacobson and Nadine Milecofsky. Many of the enhancements are not so obvious and will not be discussed publicly. Other items are quite apparent. For example, you will notice that we engaged security personnel to assist the greeters during services and other times throughout the year. These enhancements do not take the place of having each of us take a measure of responsibility and if you "See Something, Say Something."

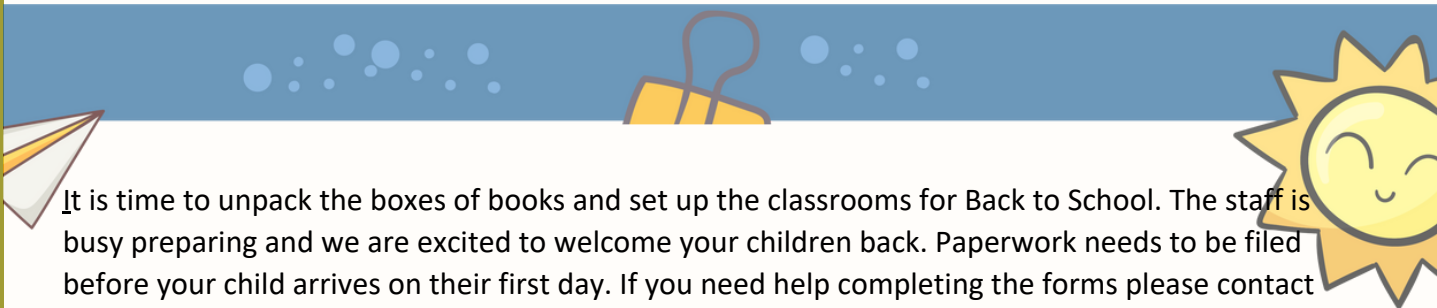

Lastly, many hours of work went into preparing the many details for the High Holy Days. The members of the Ritual Committee: Anneliese Nifoussi, Shellie Jacobson, Scott Gursky, Bruce Moskowitz, Rabbi Cohen as well as Jonathan Weitz, Richard Goldstein, Lina Avellone, Sisterhood and Deborah Kesselhaut - you all have my gratitude for a job well done.

Shana Tova from me and my entire family!

HEBREW SCHOOL

It is time to unpack the boxes of books and set up the classrooms for Back to School. The staff is busy preparing and we are excited to welcome your children back. Paperwork needs to be filed before your child arrives on their first day. If you need help completing the forms please contact Kimi Mittler, kmittler@flemingtonjcc.org

September and October are busy with the Tishrei Holidays, Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur, Sukkot and Simchat Torah. There is no school on several Sundays. School closures will be included in the Hebrew School Weekly Announcement.

- September 10th – First Sunday Session (Alef-Vav 9:00-11:30)
- September 10th – Gan Goes to Hebrew School (10:00-11:00)
- September 14th – First Wednesday Session (Gimel-7th Grade)
- September 16th – High Holiday Jr. Congregation (10:30-12:00)
- September 17th – High Holiday Jr. Congregation (10:30-11:30)
- September 25th – High Holiday Jr. Congregation (11:00-12:30)
- October 4th – Pizza in The Hut, Kids eat Free (6:00)
- October 8th – Simchat Torah Family Program during Hebrew School (9:30-11:30)
- October 12th – First Hebrew High (6:00-7:00)

The FJCC Security Committee has secured a security grant which allowed us to upgrade building security and hire a trained onsite security person while the upgrades are in progress. The security person will be present during some activities, religious services, classroom instruction, and social events. This is not in response to any threats or concerns, but one part of our ongoing efforts to improve safety for our congregation. We ask you to assist the effort by participating in "See Something, Say Something."

Please email me if you have questions about Hebrew School or programs at kwash@flemingtonjcc.org

GENIZAH

A genizah (גניזה) is a storage area in a Jewish synagogue or cemetery designated for the temporary storage of worn-out Hebrew-language books and papers on religious topics prior to proper cemetery burial. Our congregants participated in the burial of several texts as part of our organizational efforts throughout the building.

SISTERHOOD

Sisterhood is gearing up for an exciting year of programming! We kicked the new year off by getting ready for the High Holidays with our annual polishing party. Next we'll have a general meeting and discuss some of the exciting events planned for this year. We're bringing back some popular favorites and tweaking some newer programming. We can't wait to see you at our events and of course at services!

Thank you to Andrea Golstein-Byne, Pam Nemeth, Rachel Rodriguez, Sharon Rednor and Laurie Rapkin for donating your time to polish!
