Rabbi's Reflections

I listened with great interest to our speaker this past Yom HaShoah. I thought about her grandmother's flight from Europe, and how lucky she was to get out when she did. It very much reminds me of my own grandmother's flight from Vienna, two or three years later.

Both Michelle Edgar and I had lucky grandmothers. Most of their peers were not lucky. One out of three Jews living on planet earth were murdered between 1939-1945. It is an astounding statistic. As awful as that statistic is, statistics are not very relatable. For humans to wrap our heads around such facts, to really grasp them, we need to see an individual. We need to hear their story. Accounts of human experiences, individual accounts, are central to how we relate. And when I write "individuals," I don't mean presidents, prime ministers, and kings - I mean ordinary folks, average citizens.

When Michelle Edgars was telling us her grandmother's story, in the small town in Germany in which she lived, I thought about some of these ordinary folks, her grandmother's non-Jewish neighbors. What choices or decisions did they make when the Nazis came to power?

My grandmother, may she rest in peace, was able to get out of Vienna in 1939, after Kristallnacht. The vast majority of my grandmother's non-Jewish neighbors, as she tells it, were not horrible people. They did not participate in pogroms, or murder Jews, or even beat them up. They were average citizens, many of them professionals: lawyers, doctors, engineers, and small-business people. They also, the vast majority of them...did nothing to object or resist.

When the Nazis came to round up Jews, most of these "upstanding" citizens stayed behind their closed doors, turned up the radios, opened up their newspapers, and did... nothing. Now, to a certain extent, it is not fair to judge others who find themselves in circumstances in which I have never been. On the other, I can, at least, learn lessons from history, and from the people who lived through it. What choices or decisions will we make?

For my part, I can try to be truly upstanding, when my neighbors are at risk. No, we are not living through another Holocaust, but we are living through a period of nativism, xenophobia, and institutionalized prejudice. We cannot change the laws by ourselves, but we can make our voices heard, and lend help to those who need it.

In any circumstance I find myself, I try to hold myself to the ethical standard my grandmother would have wanted. And, this... is not easy. But, whoever said making the right decisions is going to be easy?

May we all accept the burden of a difficult and moral life.

From the President's Desk

Recently, I attended the American Jewish Committees Global Forum 2025 in NYC. It really was a global event with over 2,000 participants from over 60 countries. Over three days, we heard from world leaders, explored a variety of issues impacting the Jewish community and learned ways to defend and uplift the Jewish community worldwide.

Above all, it was a place where Jews from around the world could feel a sense of community and share in the emotions that many of us are feeling. Sometimes Jews feel like they are alone and the whole world is against us. Attending the Global Forum reminded me that Jews and Israel have many friends and that we need to continue to do what we can to foster those relationships.

I particularly enjoyed meeting and hearing from Jews living outside the United States. Since the horrors of October 7, Jews worldwide have had to confront increased antisemitism. No place has this increased antisemitism been worse than in the western democracies. Jews at the event from France, Australia and Sweden painted a grim picture of life there even considering leaving for safer surroundings. In contrast, the Jews from Central/South America and Eastern Europe appear to be experiencing a much safer environment.

It has never been more evident to me that Jewish strength is grounded in Unity. We must proudly stand up for Israel and the Jewish people everywhere. As Hillel said, "if I am not for myself, who will be for me?"

100th Anniversary

Please make sure to mark your calendar for the following events:

August 23: A special shabbat service held in memory of Rabbi Evan Jaffe's 10th yahrzeit. Led by the FJCC Hebrew School alumni.

August 24: A time capsule dedication ceremony.

Also, please don't forget to perform and enter your weekly completion of the Mitzvah Challenge in the spreadsheet.

100 Weeks of Mitzvot Challenge – 2nd Winner

Over the past 8 weeks FJCC members participating in the Mitzvot Challenge have bought a gift from the FJCC Gift Shop, donated old towels or pet toys to an animal shelter, read a book to a child, eaten matzo or an allergy-free equivalent, attended a Passover seder, wished our Office Administrator, Deborah, a happy day, made a monetary donation to a Jewish charity of their choice and/or given an apple to Karen Walsh or a Hebrew School teacher. Several have told me they are doing the challenges but not logging their progress. I can only report on the stats of those who log but still, it's wonderful that you are doing these mitzvot for your own personal satisfaction!!!

15 people have logged in. They collectively completed 57 mitzvot. Dancing Queen is the ONLY one to complete EACH mitzvah. Jew On A Mission missed just one week and NJ Gal did all but two.

Our second bi-monthly winner by random draw is Anna Scott who completed 4 mitzvot – donating to an animal shelter, reading to a child, attended a seder, and making a monetary donation to a Jewish charity. Anna Scott, congratulations!! Please pick up your prize in the office.

Thank you to all who are participating, however much or little and whether logging your progress or not. To everyone else, it's never too late to begin doing good deeds and to participate in this 100 week challenge!!!

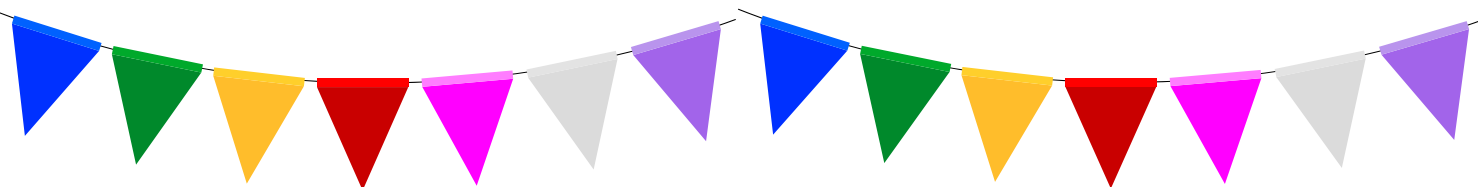

HEBREW SCHOOL

There was a nice turnout for Lag B'Omer and we didn't let the rain keep us from having fun. Rabbi explained the meaning of Lag B'Omer, and when we say hamotzi when eating pizza. There was music, pizza, ice cream and a birthday cake for Carolyn Goldman. Carolyn, "Queen of the Kitchen" as her new apron says, goes out of her way each week making sure there is something for everyone at Oneg and Kiddush. She knows where the best gluten free, dairy free, sugar free, and vegan food are in the area. We enjoyed live music by Coo Coo Cachoo.

The event was sponsored by Carolyn and David Goldman in partnership with The Jewish Federation of Somerset, Hunterdon and Warren Counties.

Julia Sirota, the new youth group director, kept the kids busy with a holiday activity about cutting one's hair on or after Lag B'Omer. It was wonderful to see the kids so engaged. It was even better seeing them engaged in creative Jewish activities. Julia is no stranger to the FJCC. She attended the FJCC nursery school and Hebrew School. Was a Hebrew School teacher assistant and Bnai Mitzvah tutor and an active participant and leader in the Young Judea youth group. Julia is currently in medical school, but will be bringing her love of Judaism, partnered with her enthusiasm and creative style to the FJCC 7th-12th grade youth group.

HEBREW SCHOOL

HEBREW SCHOOL

It is hard to believe it is time to wrap up the 2025-2026 school year. We returned from Spring Break just in time for the students to practice leading Friday night services. They did an outstanding job. Passover included some very serious chopping, stirring, table setting, learning and eating at Hebrew School on April 6.

We also thanked the staff for their hard work this year. Thanks to tutors and teacher assistants Rose Weitz and Zoe Quinn. Ian Weitz and Charlotte Byne, thank you for your contributions to Hebrew School and best wishes as you head off to college in the fall. Many thanks to teaching staff Saul Katz, Emily Quinn, Kylei Mittler and Barbara Clarin. Hebrew School runs smoothly thanks to Kimi Mittler for her Sunday morning office support and Carolyn Goldman for doing all the shopping for Hebrew School programs. The students and staff extend a thank you to Rabbi Cohen for his leadership and wisdom.

Looking ahead to the coming year.

GRAD CORNER

Kylei Mittler graduated Summa Cum Laude from Raritan Valley Community College Honors College with an Associate of Science in Biology. Kylei is looking forward to continuing her studies at The College of New Jersey this fall.

Hannah Sornstein has attended the FJCC since pre-K, becoming the most Bat Mitzvah'd FJCC student after having THREE Bat Mitzvahs thanks to covid. She has spent four years at the Hun School of Princeton where she excelled in her studies and as coxswain of the crew team, leading her boat to win the Garden State Championship 2 years in a row. This summer Hannah is going to explore Greece with a friend and then work as a counselor at a sleep away camp. In the fall she will start at Rutgers with a major in Bio-Technology.

We are so excited to share what's next for Ian Weitz. After graduating from Hunterdon Central, Ian will be heading north to Binghamton University where he will major in biochemistry as a member of both the Binghamton University Scholars and First Year Research Immersion Programs. In addition to his studies, Ian is looking forward to participating in Hillel events, working out, and playing trumpet in an ensemble. While we are going to miss his daily anecdotes, cartoon voices, and hugs on demand, we are thrilled for Ian and the amazing opportunities that await him at Binghamton.

- We love you, Mom, Dad, & Rose

GRAD CORNER

Charlotte Byne is graduating from Hunterdon Central High School this month with an AP Capstone Degree, and as a member of Rho Kappa, Thespian Society, Science Honor Society and National Honor Society. She is the leader of her school's select choir, and has been in her school musical all four years, including one of the lead roles in Hello Dolly this year. Charlotte was a member of the FJCC's Hebrew school, Hebrew high and the youth group, and was an assistant teacher at the Hebrew school these past 3 years. She will be attending Northeastern University in the Fall and plans to major in Psychology and minor in Music.

Lindsey Rodriguez is graduating from JP Case Middle School this month, heading to Hunterdon Central in the fall. While at JP Case, Lindsey was a member of two select choirs, in both of her school musicals and landed a leading role as the Wicked Witch of the West this past fall. Lindsey was also a lead in the fall drama, Box, as well as a member of student council. She was also invited to sing the National Anthem (solo!) for 2 major events held at JP Case. Lindsey is also the secretary of the FJCC Youth Group. This summer she will be working as a Counselor in Training at Barley Sheaf and attending drama camp.

Meet Bradley – Age 12

He is a kind-hearted, quick-witted 12-year-old who lights up every room he walks into. He's a dedicated ninja athlete, constantly pushing himself to climb higher, jump farther, and grow stronger. With a natural gift for making people laugh and a sharp, thoughtful mind, he's as caring as he is clever. Whether he's training, joking around, or lending a helping hand, Bradley makes a big impact in the best way.

Giving Garden

Barbara Clarin and friend Donna Drewes helped me shovel excess soil out of the garden beds and to the spot where 100 daffodils will be plants next October.

Rabbi Cohen and Hebrew High students Ian Rodriguez, Lindsey Rodriguez, Ian Weitz, Rose Weitz, and Jamie Cohen took on the important task of shoveling mushroom compost into the beds. (Thank you to Amy Cook for suggesting this upgrade.) Rabbi Cohen was a workhorse, while the teens caught up on the latest Hunterdon Central gossip.

Rich Goldstein trimmed the tree branches hanging over the garden so that our plants will get more sunshine, and also repaired a cracked PVC line. Nathan Lefkow made an important repair that enabled our hose to attach properly to the faucet. Nathan also had our soil tested.

Vergie planted lettuce, tomato, cucumber and okra plants she grew in her basement over the winter, and the FJCC Nursery School students planted and are caring for cucumbers, Swiss chard, beets and basil in their classrooms. They will transfer them into the garden May 20th and 21st. Also planted in cups was Phil Stern who is taking another crack at growing peppers. Last year's crop were truly pretty but a bit shy when it came to the actual pepper part. Karen Walsh donated peppers, tomatoes and eggplant plants that, with Jonathan Nemeth's and my help, were planted on Mother's Day. Also on Mother's Day I planted peas, beans, zucchini and butternut squash seeds directly in the ground. Direct-ground planting is something we really haven't done much of and I'm excited to see how it goes this season.

Lastly, Boy Scout, Jason Snyder, a 17 year old Junior at Hunterdon Central and graduate of the FJCC Nursery School many years ago, made three significant upgrades to the garden as part of his Eagle Scout project, a large community service project in which the Scout acts as General Manager, making a plan, raising the funds for and buying the materials, arranging for helpers on work days, and completing the project to the satisfaction of the beneficiary. Jason's project was a 3-parter: 1) Replace our 10 oldest garden beds with 10 identically-size new beds. 2) Replace the decaying gate with a new gate, keeping the decorative Star of David. 3) Cover all grassy areas with garden gravel to both eliminate the need for mowing within the fenced area and hopefully help with the problem of excess water pooling in one corner.

Jason completed the project in just four work days with a great number of Scouts and family members coming out to help. Additionally, our very own Jim Fox pitched in two of the work days. I'm told by the Scouts that he was a "work horse" who never took a break, even when doing the heavy lifting. Jim, and everyone who has helped so far, thank you!!! We are on track for a great growing season!!!!

Please visit our garden. Deposit your veggie scraps, egg shells and coffee grounds in our compost bed. Donate plants. And ask what small thing you can do to help those in need in our community.

SISTERHOOD

Why I am a Jew-Sisterhood Scholarship Winner!

Why am I Jewish? Well, it's because my mother is Jewish of course. However, that begs the question: Why am I still Jewish? It is a difficult time to be Jewish, so there must be more keeping me a Jew than just my heritage. Judaism has afforded me many opportunities and experiences that span from preparing for my Bar Mitzvah, sharing my knowledge with others, and being part of a larger Jewish community that will carry me beyond high school and the FJCC.

My Bar Mitzvah, and the work leading up to it, was a major milestone in the development of my Jewish identity. Over two years, I practiced service parts, taught myself trope, and learned my entire Torah portion and Haftorah. When the day of my Bar Mitzvah came, all of my preparation paid off, and I led the Friday and Saturday services in their entirety. Beyond the satisfaction of my hard work culminating in my Bar Mitzvah, I learned a crucial lesson on how to work hard. I can thank Judaism and the FJCC community for that opportunity and learning experience. Soon after my Bar Mitzvah, I began tutoring students for their B'nai Mitzvahs. Teaching was a fantastic experience that gave me the opportunity to pass on my knowledge of service parts, Torah, and trope to younger students, as well as to give back to the community that helped me prepare for my Bar Mitzvah. Tutoring also taught me how to teach. With each new student came a unique set of strengths and needs. For example, some of my students were especially proficient at reading Hebrew, while others were better at memorizing the tunes for prayers. As a result, I adapted my teaching strategies to optimize the learning experience for each student. In doing so, I became considerably better at tailoring my lessons to the student, which has been incredibly useful when helping classmates with physics, chemistry, and the SAT.

Tutoring has heightened my awareness of people's different communication and learning styles and has led to profound personal growth. I recently committed to Binghamton University. Among the reasons I chose Binghamton is the vibrant Jewish life on campus. The 26% Jewish population is incredibly exciting and comforting, and seeing students walking around wearing kippot makes the campus feel very open and accepting. I plan to get involved in Binghamton Hillel and Chabad events; Chabad recently held a Shabbat dinner where over 2,000 students attended—the largest student attendance at a Shabbat dinner in the nation. Since Jewish life on campus is the next step in the evolution of my Jewish identity, I placed great importance on Jewish presence when selecting a college.

Overall, the skills I have developed through Hebrew school, tutoring, and being part of the FJCC have had a profound impact on my development as a person. I am more knowledgeable, I can read Hebrew, trope, and Torah, and I am a better teacher. For all of these reasons, I wasn't just born a Jew. I have stayed a Jew, and I will forever remain a Jew.

New Member Spotlight

A warm welcome to the newest FJCC family..."

Brian, Elizabeth and Lydia Rappelfeld live in Brooklyn, and two years ago, bought a second home in Kingwood. They love it - they spend the entire summer out here and a couple of weekends a month during the rest of the year. Brian is a teacher of World History for both Middle and High School students. Elizabeth is a lawyer who works in risk management in financial services. Brian is also a singer-songwriter and performs individually and in a band. (Elizabeth is his number 1 fan!). Elizabeth loves to read, especially historical fiction and fantasy.

Lydia is 5 years old. She is currently obsessed with the Disney movie Atlantis (specifically, Princess Kida), but also loves Paw Patrol, The Lion King, Creature Cases, Moana and Rapunzel. Most of all, she just wants to play pretend. They were drawn to FJCC because of the sense of community. They light Shabbat candles every week, and through FJCC, want Lydia to continue to learn the beautiful traditions of our religion and culture

Again, a warm welcome to Brian, Elizabeth and Lydia. We are so glad to have you as part of our community and look forward to getting to know you all and maybe we can play pretend together.

PS, a little birdie mentioned that Brian may be showcasing his musical talents to the FJCC community some time in the coming months. Stay "tuned ..."
